Claim Rejections – 35 U.S.C. 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101.

The disclosed invention is inoperative and therefore lacks utility because the claims lack any medium, essential elements and codes to operate with the apparatus. Claiming a method instead of a program is suggested.

Claim Rejections – 35 U.S.C. 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 1-20, all "reply example" and "reply examples" are vague because it does not specify any example and it is not clear what "reply example" is required.

In claims 1-20, all "important areas" and "important part" is vague because it does not specify the degree of importance.

In claims 3, 14, all "unimportant part" is vague because it does not specify the degree how it is not important.

Claim Rejections – 35 U.S.C. 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, 12, 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ayyadurai (6,718,368).

Regarding Claims 1, 2, 12, 13, Ayyadurai discloses a system receiving question documents through emails, extracting phrases such as "please help!", "for several months", "never expected" from the questions (See Col. 6, lines 1-60). It also divides the input question documents into a plurality of area such as policies refunds, attitude negative, attitude positive, etc. It calculates the co-occurrence statistic, keyword frequencies, phoneme frequencies to figure out the most possible answers (See Col. 8). Then it automatically replies the questions from the table of the reply instant messages (Table 9, Col. 7, lines 1-30).

Allowable subject matter

Claims 3-11, 14-20 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Larky et al. (6,970,908) disclose a method of email attachment confirmation. Arnold et al. (6,910,003) discloses a system for concept based information searching. Hindawi et al. (6,879,979) discloses a method to remotely query, safely measurer and securely communicate configuration information of a networked computational device. Wang et al. (6,766,320) discloses a search engine with natural language based robust parsing for user query and relevance feedback learning.
